SOURCE A Hungarian refugee in Austria

- When Dezső SULYOK arrived in Austria he found Ferenc FÁGYI on good terms with the Americans; since he had very little esteem for FÁGYI, he was extremely jealous of his own reputation, he was glad to secure French support. In connection with French officials, SULYOK repeatedly mentioned France's role as a leading European nation, and French understanding of European problems; he emphasized that France was the only continental nation among the great western powers. He asked Armand JACQUEL, his liaison agent with French authorities to translate some of his speeches to the Hungarian Parliament in which he made reference to France. After ingratiating himself with French officials, SULYOK was approached by the R/Doc, through Col. FOURCOURT, who requested him to form a committee of Hungarian emigres in which all Hungarian political parties, excepting the Communists, were to be represented. This political committee was to serve only as a front, since the real interest of the French was to develop a Hungarian military and intelligence organization. Efforts were also made by the French to organize similar groups with Russian and Yugoslav nationals.
- SULYOK promised to cooperate and form such a committee within a fortnight, but failed to do so because of difficulties encountered (Field Content - See HAU-554). The R/Doc pressed repeatedly for the committee to be formed before SULYOK left for the United States. The latter, however, lost his zeal when he saw he could not win the cooperation of other important Hungarian personalities in exile who opposed the organization since it was based solely on French support, and since it provided for inclusion of compromised Arrow Cross members in the committee. When SULYOK failed to form his projected committee, relations between him and the French became strained.
- SULYOK spent a few days in Paris before he left for the United States. While SULYOK was in Paris, the French authorities brought him into contact with Ferenc KISBÁTH and FÁKÁS. The latter had been instructed by Col. FOURCOURT to visit a few important personalities in France, among them Dr. GÖTH, Dr. MAKÁCH, Dr. MÁJKA, and a priest named GÁCSI, and through their exert influence on SULYOK so that he might be won over completely in favor of the French plan. KISBÁTH and FÁKÁS received instructions from Col. FOURCOURT to inform SULYOK that the aforementioned Hungarian personalities, including SULYOK, formed the Hungarian emigre group headed by Ferenc FÁGYI and Zoltán APÉK as the United States. At the same time, István FARKAS, was sent by KISFARNAKI-FARKAS to here to win the support of Géza ZAKÓ and others for a French-sponsored group in Italy.

4. After numerous and lengthy consultations with other Hungarian political figures, GLYNN referred to other in a venue based solely on French support, and was willing to offer the services of his group for the exclusive benefit of France. He allegedly told French officials that he would not tolerate establishment of a Hungarian legion in South Africa.
5. The D/DIO also approached János GÖVÖCS, former Peasant Party leader, who is regarded by source as thoroughly reliable despite rumors that he also is a member of the CP. Source has heard that D/DIO officials believe this report was circulated by the Americans.
6. The French have as yet been unable to organize Hungarian and Yugoslav exile groups to their satisfaction, and for that reason, they attempt putting the blame on the Hungarian exile group.
7. KISFARNAKI-FARKAS is on excellent terms with Col. FOURCHON of the I.S.; the latter, who lives in Paris, visits the French Zone of Austria frequently. KISFARNAKI-FARKAS is also in constant contact with Col. MONDAIS, now stationed in Innsbruck. Col. KARNAUD—another French official (in Innsbruck) is also in contact with KISFARNAKI-FARKAS. During the war Col. KARNAUD was with the French resistance movement and allegedly infiltrated the Waffen SS on a high level.
8. Other French I.S. officials in contact with the Hungarian exiles from are:
1st Lt. FRÉGANT (phonetic) and Lt. ROUSSET, formerly a French Legion officer in the American Zone of Austria, whose wife is Hungarian. Two officers of the D/DIO, EDOUARD and ROBERT, are Hungarian intelligence officers for the D/DIO. EDOUARD and ROBERT, both former career officers in their early thirties, French plane call for a Hungarian intelligence group consisting of 15 to 20 men headed by A. ZAKÓ; most of these men are now stationed in the American Zones of Germany and Austria. This group is also to include an offensive intelligence unit, the aim of which would be to penetrate the officers corps of the Hungarian army.
9. Géza András is resentful of KISFARNAKI-FARKAS' political maneuvering, and has requested that he consider himself primarily a soldier. ZAKÓ maintains that since they are back in Hungary, they can have a political regime of their own choice and there is no point in playing politics now. ZAKÓ has been instructed by French officials to select his agents only from long-time opponents of Communism. There is no objection to former Arrow Cross members nor to persons with American contacts, but all activities must be thoroughly controlled by the French I.S.
10. While the French I.S. seeks to win support of Hungarian exiles by claiming that the Americans failed for a long time to offer such exiles any assistance, the French are well aware that it is impossible to avoid American involvement in their operations. Marcus NEY, a former KOHANS leader and RADAK, for example, were expelled from ZAKÓ's organization because they were suspected of working for the American I.S. in Austria. ZAKÓ has complained on several occasions that he does not have an adequate flow of intelligence reports. Source believes that French officials strive out ZAKÓ's men for direct contact, so that many reports are received directly by the French without passing through the Hungarian I.S.
11. KISFARNAKI-FARKAS has been advised recently by French officials to transfer his residence from the American Zone of Germany to the French Zone of Austria;
